Recommendations for Systematic Improvements

Maintaining Parental Visits Benefit Children
The Office of Child Advocate continues to express concerns regarding visitation and specific practices in circuits denying visits between parents and children. While there has been improvement across the state, OCA still finds visitation being used as a way to reward or punish parents versus making the decision based on the child/children’s best interest. Visitation decisions should be based solely on the safety and well-being of a child. Visitation should not be used as a means to coerce the parent into compliance with the written service agreement or based on the results of urine analysis (UA) for drugs. By denying visitation based on a lack of parental compliance or a positive drug screen, the team effectively punishes the child as well as the parent. Practices such as requiring three clean UAs prior to allowing visitation harms children, lengthens the time in alternative care, and are not effective in changing parental behavior.

The Office of Child Advocate recommends that the Children’s Division establish a visitation plan between the parent(s), guardian(s) and/or custodian(s) and child within 30 days of the child entering care to be filed with the court. The visitation plan should include an assessment of the risk and safety factors present, the purpose of the visitation, the expectations and conditions of visitation, the location, frequency and duration of the visitation, the persons permitted to participate in the visitation with consideration of family members present to assist in the supervision of the child if appropriate, the roles and responsibilities of the team members involved in the visitation, an assessment of transportation concerns, requirements for oversight and activities permitted during the visitation. The visitation plan should be least restrictive conducive to the safety and well-being of the child. Further, an initial visit between the parent(s), guardian(s) or custodian(s) and child should occur within 72 hours of the child’s placement into protective custody, excluding weekends and holidays, unless the Children’s Division and multidisciplinary team determine that visitation would endanger the physical health or emotional well-being of the child.

In custody procedures, Section 452.400 RSMo establishes that the standard to deny visitation between a parent and a child requires the court to find “that visitation would endanger the child’s physical health or impair his or her emotional development.” At this time, there is no statutory required findings to deny visitation in Section 210 or 211. Office of Child Advocate recommends that a statutory change be considered requiring courts to hold a hearing and make similar findings prior to denying visitation. Children’s Division should use similar articulation of harm when recommending cessation of visitation to the court. Absence the ability to articulate the physical or emotional harm, visitation is recommended.

Maintaining frequent and meaningful contact between parents and children benefits children. Research has continually demonstrated improved outcomes.

♦ Children who were visited frequently (once a week or once every two weeks) exhibited fewer behavioral problems than children who were visited infrequently (once a month or less) or not at all. Overall, children who had frequent contact with their parent(s) showed less anxiety and depression than children whose parents’ visits were either infrequent or non-existent (Cantos & Gries, 1997).
♦ Children who were visited frequently by their parent(s) were more likely to have higher well-being ratings, adjusted better to placement, and were less likely to be discharged from placement (Hess, 2003).
Visitation also:
- Supports attachment
- Eases pain of separation
- Maintains and strengthens family relationships
- Reassures a child that their parent(s) is/are all right and helps them to eliminate self-blame for placement
- Supports the family in dealing with changing relationships
- Enhances parent motivation to change by providing reassurance that the parent-child relationship is important for a child’s well being
- Provides opportunities for parent(s) to learn and try new skills
- Supports a child’s adjustment
- Enables the parent(s) to be active and stay current with their child’s development, education and medical needs, church and community activities
- Provides opportunities for parent(s) to assess how their child is doing, and share information about child’s needs
- Assists in the assessment of parenting capacities and permanency goals
- Reduces time in Alternative Care
- Increases likelihood of reunification

Residential Care
The Office of Child Advocate recognizes the value of structured environments and intensive therapeutic treatment available in residential facilities. However, OCA recommends that Children’s Division enhance their placement decisions, expectations of facilities, and improve their preparation for a child’s transition. Placement in a residential facility should be based on the child’s need for intensive therapeutic treatment based on safety and well-being concerns that cannot be addressed in a less restrictive environment. Placement should never be based on bad behavior or as a punishment. Unfortunately we have found in records, workers documenting their conversations that if a child continues to do a specified behavior they will be sent to residential.

Additionally, once a child is placed, the family support team should immediately begin planning for transitioning the child back to the community. Maintaining contact with family including parents, siblings, and extended family is critical for the child and should not be based on levels. Connection to family is not to be earned. Phone calls and visitation decisions should be based solely on the child’s safety and wellbeing. Other community members the child has a connection with should be considered as visitation resources as well. Identification of where the child is going to reside after discharge should also take place immediately. If the child will transition into a new foster home, that identified placement should become involved at the earliest opportunity to engage in the child’s treatment, therapy and visits. This will not only help build a connection between the child and future placement but will also allow the future family to fully understand the child’s needs, what services and support they will need in place prior to discharge, and help ensure a child’s successful transition.
OCA had the opportunity to observe Greene County’s Residential Placement Review Hearings. These monthly hearings address why a child is placed in residential, the treatment goals, progress that has been made, the discharge plan, and services to be put in place to ensure the transition from residential is successful. Since beginning these review hearings in February of 2017, Greene County has created a culture of planning for transition.

Finally a child’s safety in a residential facility must be ensured. While a restraint may be necessary at times to protect a child or other children in a facility, any injury resulting from a restraint must be closely scrutinized. The State should review if the restraint was necessary for safety or used as a means of gaining compliance/punishment. Opportunities for de-escalation should be reviewed. Patterns of restraints and any injuries should be reviewed as a whole versus just investigating each isolated incident. Ultimately the definition of abuse and neglect does not distinguish between where a child resides. If it would be considered abuse in a home; it should be considered abuse in a residential facility.

History
The Office of Child Welfare Ombudsman was established by Governor Bob Holden’s Executive Order in 2002 to act as an agent of accountability regarding Children’s Protection Services. In 2004, the 92nd General Assembly passed Speaker Catherine Hanaway’s House Bill 1453. The legislation changed the office name to the Office of Child Advocate for Children’s Protection and Services and strengthened the role of the office. Governor Jay Nixon signed Senator Jane Cunningham’s Senate Bill 54 into law in 2011 authorizing the Office of Child Advocate to coordinate mediation efforts between school districts and students when allegations of child abuse arise in a school setting. In 2014, Senator Eric Schmitt’s SB869 and Rep. Bill Lant’s HB1092 were signed into law by Governor Nixon authorizing OCA to intervene on behalf of a child during judicial proceedings. Senator Jeanie Riddle’s 2015 SB341 authorized OCA to conduct a county review of policy and procedures of Children’s Division, the Juvenile Office, and guardian ad litem to improve the handling of child welfare cases within a circuit. (See Appendix B for statute language.) Since its inception, the office has served a total of 11,077 children.

Receiving, Investigating and Concluding Complaints

Receiving Complaints
From January 1 through December 31, 2017, the Office of Child Advocate received 1,224 complaints/contacts including registered concerns from 541 new complainants, 284 unsubstantiated, 33 cases as part of SB341 review, 2 mediation and 1 fatality reviews involving 1,322 children.

Investigating Complaints

Upon the receipt of a complaint, the Office of Child Advocate notifies the appropriate Children’s Division Circuit Manager, Division Director, and Juvenile Office that our office has been requested to review a case. The identity of the complainant is kept confidential unless our office is given permission to share the information with the appropriate parties. The Office of Child Advocate proceeds to determine the appropriate level of investigation. Possible levels of investigation include:

1) No investigation needed
2) Gather information and interact as necessary with involved parties
3) Request and review the Children’s Division case file
4) Conduct on-site review

Concluding Complaints

Reviews and investigations are concluded within 45 business days. Extenuating circumstances may occasionally extend the investigation in certain instances, such as continued court dates, ongoing concerns or new allegations. The Office of Child Advocate will issue a letter of conclusion to the appropriate Children’s Division Circuit Manager, Regional Manager, Division Director, Juvenile Office and the complainant. In cases where confidential information cannot be shared with the complainant, a separate letter will be issued to the complainant. Possible conclusions may involve:

1) No policy/procedure error(s) noted
2) Policy/procedure error(s) noted
3) Practice issue(s) identified

In many referred cases, no violations of policy, practice or state statues were noted. The Office of Child Advocate noted no policy violations, practice concerns, and had no recommendations in 148 cases. Office of Child Advocate was in agreement with an unsubstantiated finding in 215 hotline investigations, did not agree in 21 cases, and were inconclusive in 14 typically due to incomplete investigations.

In 2015, House Bill 341 was enacted creating Section 37.719 RSMo., granting the Office of Child Advocate the authority to conduct an independent review of any entity within a county that experienced three or more review requests in a calendar year including, but not limited to, Children’s Division, the Juvenile Office, or Guardian ad Litem. The Office was further provided with the authority to make recommendations on changes to any entity’s policies and procedures based on the results of the review in order to improve the delivery of services or the function of the entity and to direct such findings and recommendations to the Children’s Division and the Office of State Courts Administrator. In addition, the Office was directed to establish and implement procedures for reviewing any such entity. (See Appendix B)

In November 2017, the Office of Child Advocate initiated a review of the Boone County Children’s Division and Juvenile Office, based on complaints received by the Office during the calendar year. Within the Children’s Division all three program lines, to include; investigations, family centered services and alternative care, were identified as part of the review process to better understand the overall practice within the county. Notification was sent to the stakeholders involved and the Office of Child Advocate requested thirty (30) cases, ten (10) cases from each program line for review. In addition, numerous interviews were conducted during the course of the review with the following stakeholders: Children’s Division circuit manager, Children’s Division supervisors, Children’s Division investigators, Children’s Division family centered services case managers, Children’s Division alternative care case managers, the Chief Juvenile Officer, Deputy Juvenile Officers, alternative care case managers within the foster care case management private agency, foster parents, relative placement providers, a Guardian ad litem, a parent attorney, a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA), members of the local child advocacy center, local therapists involved in the child welfare system, the juvenile court Judge, school personnel, and the attorney for the Juvenile Officer. After all interviews and a review of the records were completed, a compilation of concerns and findings were made.

Increasing Knowledge of Professionals & Public

Per section 37.710.2 (7) RSMo, The Office of Child Advocate is authorized, “to take whatever steps are appropriate to see that persons are made aware of the services of the Child Advocate’s office, its purpose and how it can be contacted.” Between January 1 and December 31, 2017 the Office of Child Advocate increased the knowledge of Child Welfare professionals and citizens by providing the following trainings while at the same time raising the awareness of the Office of Child Advocate:

- Missouri Juvenile Justice Association/Office of State Courts Administrator (MJJA/OSCA) fundamental skills training for new hire Juvenile Officers
- MJJA/OSCA fundamental skills training for new hire Juvenile Detention staff
- Missouri State Highway Patrol Juvenile Justice training
- Stewards of Children prevention of sexual abuse of children training

In addition, the Office of Child Advocate served on the following Task Force and Work groups to improve child welfare practice and raise awareness of the Office of Child Advocate:

- Task Force on Human Trafficking
- Juvenile Standards Work Group
- Prevention of the Sexual Abuse of Children Workgroup
- Missouri Task Force on Children’s Justice
- Child Fatality Review Program State Panel
- Task Force on Recruitment, Licensing, and Retention of Foster Care and Adoptive Homes
- Missouri State Foster Care and Adoption Board
- Missouri Alliance for Children and Families Advisory Board
The Office of Child Advocate’s awareness and visibility was increased as a result of speaking, participating or exhibiting at the following conferences and trainings:

- Missouri Juvenile Justice Association (MJJA): Education Spring Conference
- Missouri Juvenile Justice Association (MJJA): Fall Educational Conference
- Annual Missouri School Counselor Association Fall Conference
- Missouri Coalition of Children’s Agencies (MCCA)
- Powerful Learning Conference sponsored by the Department of Elementary & Secondary Education
- Children’s Trust Fund Conference
- Missouri State Fair, Family Fun Center

Stewards of Children is the only evidence informed training on the prevention of sexual abuse of children available in the nation. The facilitator-led training empowers adults to identify and prevent child abuse. There is no cost for adults and organizations to attend this training thanks to funding by the Children’s Trust Fund and the Office of Child Advocate. As part of a network led by Missouri KidsFirst, OCA and certified trainers across the state from agencies such as Child Advocacy Centers, Head Start, and YMCA have the goal of training 5% of adults in every county so they understand their role and concrete action items they can implement both personally and at an organizational level to prevent sexual abuse. Five percent is commonly referred to as a tipping point at which adults trained in a community will shift culture. Please see appendix C for a flyer to share. Below is a map indicating the number of adults trained per county.
Adults being trained take a pre-test indicating their knowledge on the subject and then a post-test to signify how much they have learned. The chart below indicates the percentage of increased knowledge.

Sources of New Complaints

Most of the complaints received by the Office of Child Advocate are from biological parents of children in state care or custody. Specific concerns may revolve around placement, visitation, safety, communication and other related matters. Grandparents are the second highest source of complaints and other relatives are the third highest. These calls usually involve family wanting placement of children that have been removed from the parent’s home or family who are concerned about the safety of the children living with a parent or other caretaker.

Location of Children Referred
Complaints come from across the state and from relatives living in other states. The Office of Child Advocate identifies patterns of concern within a county and across the State. However, the number of calls we receive in a county often is only reflective of the number of children in care and the level of awareness of our office in a specific location.

*Includes cases reviewed as part of SB341 review
Effectiveness Measurements

Though not required by statute, the Office of Child Advocate has established measurement gauges to help ensure effectiveness in serving Missouri children and families. These include initial response time, time frame for completing new investigations, and time allotment for completing unsubstantiated reviews.

A timely initial response is of fundamental importance. A 90% goal has been set to contact the complainant within three business days of any new complaint. In 2017 OCA met this goal in 94% of cases.

The goal of the Office of Child Advocate is to complete more than 80% of the investigations and unsubstantiated reviews within 45 business days of receipt of the complaint. However, many factors may cause a case to remain open, out of timeframes. For example, cases involving the court system may be kept open beyond 45 days to sufficiently monitor the court process. In other instances, conducting a complete and thorough investigation may require an extended period of time due to ongoing concerns. In 2017 OCA met this goal in 87% of the cases.
